Life Without Nick

Jessica's Night With Adam

Maroon 5 singer Levine makes a play for Simpson as she samples the singles scene BY JENNIFER O'NEILL

WHAT STARTED OUT seeming like a girls' night for Jessica Simpson turned into something more at West Hollywood hot spot Chateau Marmont on January 15. Around midnight, the actress, 25, strolled into the lobby with pals, including actress Eva Mendes, and took a table for white wine and girl talk. Then Maroon 5's Adam Levine, 26, made his move, abandoning the couch where he sat and sliding into a seat beside her. "He didn't even look at anyone else," says an eyewitness. "He was interested in Jessica."

Now that she has resumed her social life as a single woman, a source close to Simpson tells Us she is finding out that scoring a date with her is the Holy Grail for some of Hollywood's most notorious bachelors. And

Eyes and Lips Update

Black-and-blue or just tired in L.A. on January 11?

Simpson's pout is still overly plump (from possible Restylane injections, as Us reported in December), and last week, she seemed to nurse a shiner. Surgery? Shadow? "It is black-and-blue – from trauma or injections," says NYC plastic surgeon Steven Fallek. Adds laser surgeon Mitchell Chasin, "The location suggests filler like Restylane, which can reduce dark bags or smooth the area." Says a pal, "She was tired." Her rep declined comment.

"She knows he is a naughty boy and flirts with a lot of girls," a Simpson source says of Levine (in L.A. in December).
